

Good Morning NCAFCC Member ED/CEO/Directors,

Please see below for an opportunity to engage and collaborate with NCAFCC's dental members, as well as those members who are interested in engaging in the dental space. Please share this email with any team members who may be interested in joining in as well!

Join Us May 9 for Inaugural Quarterly Meeting of NCAFCC's New Dental Networking Group!

We're introducing a new quarterly dental networking group for those members who are engaged in, or would like to be engaged in, the dental space, so mark your calendars for Thursday, May 9, from 1:30 to 3:00 p.m. for our inaugural meeting.

This series of meetings is part of our strategic priority of expanding dental access to free and charitable clinic patients across each of the NCAFCC regions in North Carolina.

Each quarter, we hope to have a guest speaker, as well as some discussion time among our members. This will be a great opportunity to learn and grow together as we work toward our vision of every free and charitable clinic patient in North Carolina having access to dental care.

We owe a special shout-out to Dr. Brett Leslie, a dentist from Community Care Clinic of Rowan who has been supporting NCAFCC and its members in dental expansion and will facilitate our meetings. Dr. Leslie also secured our first guest speaker, Amanda Belleville, a colleague of his at Rowan-Cabarrus Community College. (Details at right.)

Amanda Belleville (shown above) will be our featured speaker for our inaugural dental networking group meeting.

Amanda is program chair for dental assisting at Rowan-Cabarrus Community College in addition to teaching radiology and infection control for dental practices around the state.

Amanda is very excited to speak to our group on compliance issues facing free dental clinics and ways free dental clinics can partner with community college dental programs.

Allison Kelly